

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES—Monday, September 14, 1987

The House met at 12 noon and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore [Mr. BEVILL].

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,
September 11, 1987.

I hereby designate the Honorable TOM BEVILL to act as Speaker pro tempore on Monday, September 14, 1987.

JIM WRIGHT,

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAYER

The Reverend Charles Mallon, permanent deacon, Holy Family Church, Mitchellville, MD, offered the following prayer:

The Lord is just in all His ways and holy in all His works, the Lord is near to all who call upon Him, to all who call upon Him in truth.—Psalm 145: 18.

Father, open our inner eyes that we might see ourselves as we are and grant us the mercy to find contentment.

Spirit of the living God, open our minds to the justice that acknowledges thankfulness in all that we are.

Lamb of God, open our hearts to the fatherly love that comes to us from our Creator.

Father, in thankfulness we accept these gifts, through Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

LUDICROUS LAWS

(Mr. RICHARDSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous matter.)

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I have a matter of great importance to discuss with my colleagues in the House.

In the August 25 edition of the Hartford Courant there was an article published called "Ludicrous Laws on the Books."

They stated that if you are in Raton, NM, it is against the law for a woman to ride horseback down the street while wearing a kimono.

Mr. Speaker, I can probably report that this is not the case in Raton, NM. No such law is on the books.

The reason I mention this to my colleagues is that there are ads throughout several newspapers and magazines around the country by the American Bar Association talking about other ludicrous laws. For instance, for my colleagues in Connecticut, if you have got a pet bear, do not take him for a walk on a highway in Connecticut. You could be fined $50.

If your mustache makes people laugh, do not wear it to church in Alabama, or you could be arrested.

Also, in California it is against the law to set a mousetrap without obtaining a hunting license.

Mr. Speaker, I am mentioning these ludicrous laws, because I have researched the law supposedly in one of the towns in my district, a fine little town of Raton, NM. If you want to go to Raton, NM, and you want to ride a horse, and you want to wear a kimono, it is OK.

The articles referred to follow:

[From the Hartford Courant, Aug. 25, 1987]

LUDICROUS LAWS: PAPER WRONG ON LAW

Raton has gotten a bum rap in Connecticut.

The Hartford Courant reported last month under a headline "Ludicrous Laws" that Raton has on its books a law that prohibits a woman to ride horseback down the street while wearing a kimono.

Not stated in the Courant is the fact that the law was not in the Raton codified laws of 1927, nor is it in the present code adopted in 1981.

"Most of the laws not found in the Code are repealed by section 10," said City Clerk Eva Mae Sproule.

It reads, "All ordinances or parts of ordinances of the City in conflict herewith are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed."

Also, persons contacted in the Courant office in Connecticut didn't know the source of the report.

So, women in Raton, feel free to put on your kimonos, untie your horses and take to the streets without fear of arrest.

LUDICROUS LAWS

If your moustache makes people laugh, don't wear it to church in Alabama, or you could be arrested.

If you've got a pet bear, don't take him for a walk on a highway in Connecticut. You could be fined $50.00.

Believe it or not, it's against the law in California to set a mousetrap without obtaining a hunting license.

THE OUTDATED LAWS THAT REGULATE BANKING AREN'T SO FUNNY

It wasn't very long ago that America was the undisputed world leader in almost everything. Then, we started losing our clout. Textiles, cars, steel, and electronics began moving abroad, costing American jobs.

Hardly anybody has noticed that the same thing is happening with banking.

If you look at the names of today's top ten world banks, only one still has a U.S. address. The Japanese now dominate that list.

For years, the world's leading financial centers were located in America. Because of archaic federal banking laws—some predating World War II—Tokyo, London and other overseas centers are now taking over. Already, foreign banks are making one-fifth of the loans of all U.S. businesses.

The point is, America's banks are not asking to be protected from foreign competition. They are not asking Congress to save them from the fight. They are asking for a fighting chance. Unless America's banks are permitted to fully compete and meet their customers' needs, a lot more American jobs will be squarely on the line.

LUDICROUS LAWS

Put a smile on your face when you pass through Pocatello, Idaho. Because it's against the law to frown or look gloomy.

In Ratan, New Mexico, it's against the law for a woman to ride horseback down the street while wearing a kimono.

Believe it or not, it's against the law for any team to beat the Arizona Wildcats on their home ground in Tucson, Arizona.

IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE

(Mr. DANNEMEYER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DANNEMEYER. Mr. Speaker, a Lebanese man has covered his war-scarred walls with the country's devalued banknotes after figuring that it would cost four times as much to do the job with wallpaper. According to Beirut newspaper As-Safir, Suhail Karouni, from the southern port of Tyre, covered his walls, damaged by Israeli artillery fire, with 1- and 5-pound notes for the equivalent of $18 compared with $76 for wallpaper. Thirty-five Lebanese pounds were equivalent to $1 in 1975; recently the Lebanese currency hit an all-time low of 300 pounds to the dollar. The newspaper report added that Mr. Karouni intends to use the notes if the currency should ever recover its former value.

□ This symbol represents the time of day during the House proceedings, e.g., □ 1407 is 2:07 p.m.

Matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor.

If the experience with our paper dollar is any guide, Mr. Karouni will be spared the trouble of having to scrape his walls. The United States currency lost 60 percent of its value in terms of the Japanese yen between 1975 and 1980. But when it showed some signs of recovery between 1980 and 1985, a vicious agitation against the so-called strong dollar prompted the U.S. Treasury to beat down the value of the greenback to an all-time low of 139 yen to the dollar.

Mr. Speaker, some say it can't happen here. But if the paper dollar is to avoid the ignominy of becoming wallpaper material, the Congress should discharge its constitutional duty and stabilize its value in terms of gold.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE HONORABLE WILLIAM F. CLINGER, JR., MEMBER OF CONGRESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Honorable WILLIAM F. CLINGER, JR.:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE HONORABLE PAUL E. KANJORSKI, MEMBER OF CONGRESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Honorable PAUL E. KANJORSKI:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, August 7, 1987.
Hon. JIM WRIGHT,
Speaker, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: I have previously notified you of the receipt of a grand jury subpoena by a member of my district office staff issued by the United States District Court for the Middle District of Pennsylvania.

A CELEBRATION OF CITIZENSHIP

(Mrs. BOGGS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. BOGGS. Mr. Speaker on February 21, 1787, the Congress of the Confederation endorsed the plan adopted at the Annapolis Convention for a new meeting of delegates from all the States of the Republic. Seventy-four men were appointed by State legislatures and Governors to attend the May 25 Convention in Philadelphia. Out of those 74, 55 attended, 19 declined to attend, 14 left before the Convention closed, 39 signed the final draft and 3 refused to sign the final form. What these gentlemen did was lay down the framework for an unprecedented form of government. As we approach the bicentennial of this historic document, we are filled with a sense of national pride that our Constitution is the world's oldest governing document.

Americans everywhere have the opportunity to participate with their families, communities and schools in the commemoration of the Constitution. I urge all of my colleagues to join with the youth of the Nation on September 16, at 1 p.m. on the west front steps of the Capitol for "A Celebration of Citizenship," a patriotic salute to our historic document.

RESIGNATION OF ELIZABETH DOLE AS SECRETARY OF TRANSPORTATION

(Mr. COUGHLIN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. COUGHLIN. Mr. Speaker, the Secretary of Transportation, Elizabeth Dole, has today announced her intention to resign effective October 1.

This will certainly be a loss to the administration and to the Nation. By the same token, it will be a great plus for Senator DOLE.

Elizabeth Dole has the longest tenure as the Secretary of Transportation in the history of the Department. She became known as the "Secretary of Safety."

□ 1210

Her campaign against drunk driving and to increase the drinking age has reduced the carnage on our highways; the high mounted stoplights you see on the back of today's automobiles is a testimonial to her efforts. She presided over the privatization of Conrail and Washington and Dulles Airports, as they should have been.

She saw a massive increase in Coast Guard interdiction off the Florida coast.

She did more in the Department of Transportation; in fact, with less money.

We will all miss Secretary Dole. We will miss her efforts as the Secretary of Transportation. We will miss her charm and her ability; but we know that we have not heard the last of this very brilliant woman.
